BLOOD ON THE MOON.

A Series of Wordy Skirmishes and one Real Fight

HAPPEN OVER AT MARTIN'S FERRY.

The Trouble about Alleged Improvident and Illegal Contracts by Council Leads to a Personal Altercation between Judge John S. Cochran and President Henderson-Narrow Escapes from Other Fights-The Matter gets into the Courts at Last.

Judge John S. Cochran, a prominent attorney of Martin's Ferry, and John H. Henderson, president of the Martin's Ferry council, surprised the citizens yesterday by having an encounter on the street. There were several blows passed, the two men clinched, Cochran grasped Henderson by the collar bone, and then they were separated by friends. The only blood noticeable was on Henderson's neck, and the only weapon used was an umbrella.

Judge Cochran was one of the first taxpayers to take steps toward organizing to prevent council from making illegal contracts, and he denounced the contract made by council to pay Engineer Potter $1,000 for making plans for a sewerage system, and the payment of Potter's expenses to New York to have the plans approved by an engineer. Cochraa and others intended to enjoin this. Cochran and Potter had a lively tilt about it on Tuesday, Cochran tell-ing Potter that he was a bulldozer, and lied when he said that the people who proposed to get out the injunction were cowards. He ordered Potter out of his Potter hustled and got his bill through council, as stated in yesterday's INTELLI-GENCER. At this meeting of council C. O. Cochran, the contractor, and a brother of Judge Cochran, presented a bill, and Henderson said that his brother, the judge, told them not to pay it either, whereupon C. C. Cochran told Henderson that he was telling what he know to be untrue. knew to be untrue.

meeting. Cochran called Honderson became more animated, and Cochran, who carried an umbrella, struck Henderson with this and broke the handle. He dropped the umbrella and made several passes at Henderson, who also struck Cochran with his umbrella.

They clinched, and Cochran, who was struck on the left cheek by Henderson, grasped him by the neck, scratching it and bringing blood. Cochran then seized Henderson by the collar bone with one hand, held to it with a death grip and tried to strike Henderson with the other hand.

The judge, whose health is poor, and who is physically weak, was not able to do Henderson much harm, and the latter, who held his antagonist most of the time, was not making an effort to hurt him.

"Ster that fight!" "They will not do."

hurt him.
"Stop that fight!" "That will not do!"

and so on, were heard. George Cooke, who is reading law with George Duncan, proceeded to separate Cochran and Henderson, and Health Officer Hildebrand, who dislikes Cochran, yelled, "Let them alone!"

Hildebrand, who dislikes Cochran, yelled, "Let them alone!"
Dr. J. D. Hobensack and James Raiston, both just recovering from sickness, rushed up and separated the two men, neither of whom was arrested. Patsy Mullen, who heard Hildebrand say, "Let them alone! Let them fight it out!" ran up to Hildebrand, called him a "black sheep," and talked about threshing him, because Hildebrand had been prosecuted by Cochran and wanted to see him whipped. Jim Raiston also see him whipped. Jim Ralston also talked plainly to Hildebrand, and C. C. Cochran, who appeared later, had a red hot discussion, during which they talked about fighting.
Cochran drew back his arm once as if to strike at Henderson, but no blows

were exchanged.

A few minutes later John Gies came along and criticised Henderson about the work of council. They had some words and Henderson told Gies that he was nearer his size than Judge Cochran, and he would fight him.

C. C. Cochran, hearing what Hilder

C. C. Cochran, hearing what Hilde-brand had said, hunted him up and called him down. Hildebrand walked away from Cochran, who was very angry at him for expressing himself as After this considerable talk was done, but no noses were broken or eyes blackened, and the large crowd which had collected in the vicinity gradually dispersed.

The affair created a profound sensa-tion. Cochran and Henderson will be asked to appear before Mayor Harris to-day.

Hereafter the people will watch more closely than in the past. Many are kicking because the contract was made with Potter. It was not advertised. Had it been some other engineer would probably have taken it at less money. It is believed that fower illegal contracts will be made in the future. Some

It is believed that fewer illegal contracts will be made in the future. Some taxpayers are doing plain talking.

Yesterday City Solicitor H. G. Pratt went to St. Chirsville on behalf of the taxpayers and secured two injunctions from Probate Judgo Tallman, one covering the Potter bill and the other the Boehm curbing contract. The former was granted to the city of Martin's against the six city councilmen, mayor, clerk and treasurer, to enjoin the cierk and mayor from signing the order and the treasurer from paying the bill of Engineer Potter, on the ground that the bill was over $500, was not advertised and was an illegal contract, there being no money in the treasury.

The second injunction is to prevent the work and the payment of John Boehm's bill. Boehm's bild for curbing was 30\frac{1}{2}, cents and James Jamison's was 30\frac{1}{2}, three cents lower, and still council awarded the contract to Boehm. The injunction was granted on the ground that Boehm's bild was the highest and there was no meny in these

The injunction was granted on the ground that Bookm's bid was the highest, and there was no money in the tresury for that purpose when the contract was let. There are 4,300 feet in the job, and the difference of three nts a foot would make a saving of $120

THE COMMERCIAL TRAVELLERS: It was their Day at the World's Fair and they were Monarchs of all they Surveyed.

CHICAGO, July 26 .- The imperturbable, energetic, generous, jolly, goodnatured commercial travelling man is practically in possession of the World's Fair to-day. This is his day at the White City, and, with his accustomed Fair to-day. This is his day at the White City, and, with his accustomed vigor, he is making the most of it. At every booth, in every building, he is received with open arms and overy concession, from the dusky-skinned Arabian in the Midway Plaisance to the pleasure-loving Touton in the manufactures building, is vieing with his neighbor in doing honor to the man who builds up and extends the commerce of the world.

It was nearly 11 o'clock before the train bearing the Associated Commercial Travelers of the United States arrived at the great terminal station. There was a crowd of visitors there to see the travelers come in and as they giled through the gates were greeted with cheers and waving banners and music from the Cincinnati band. The membors of the American Exhibitors' Association, of the World's Fair, whose especial guests the traveling men are, were there in a body to receive them, and they were escorted to the head-quarters of the Exhibitors' Association, where a luncheon was served. When all had partaken to his satisfaction, the commercial travelers, greatly refreshed, were escorted to festival hall. The proceedings at festival hall were of an informal character. At 5 o'clock was commenced the topy of the principal exhibit buildings, under the secort of the Exhibitors' Association.

The display of fireworks was something exceptionally fine. The programme of pyrotechnic features were arranged especially in honor of the commercial travelers.

Another reason recognized by the exposition authorities as justifying an especially attractive programme was the presence upon the grounds of thousands of members of the German-American Turners societies, this being "Turnerbund Day."

THE EDUCATORS.

The international meetings of the National Educational Association assembled in fifteen separate meetings in the art palace to-day. The department of higher education was called to order by President D. C. Gilman, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, who made the opening address. Prof. Andrew West, of Princeton, is the secretary of this department. The department considered the question, "How far it is desirable that universities should be of one type."

Martin Kellogg, valedictorian of the class of 1850 at Yale, now president of the University of California, opened the discussion by stating that "universities should aim at special excellence in certain portions of the whole field."

This view was endorsed by Dr. Fiske and Dr. Hurlburt, of the department of theology University of Chicago.

An address on the division of labor in the university, prepared by Prof. sembled in fifteen separate meetings in Death of An Octogenarian.

Death of An Getegenarian.

Mrs. Asonath Hoge died yesterday at her home near Burr's Mills, Ohio, aged 86. She was the widow of the late Asa Hoge, and the mother of Gen. G. W. Hoge, formerly a banker and lawyer at Bellaire. Mr. E. Hoge, a well known mail agent of this city, is a son, and A. L. White, assistant city engineer, a grandson. She leaves an unusually large line of descendants to keep green the memory of a good woman, and all who know her will revere her memory.

WARM BATHER ISDOM.

COME MERCHANTS would have you believe that trade enters a condition of torpidity about July 1, and remains so till the cool days of September wake it to life and activity again.

But, begging your pardon, that is not true. There is no season of the year in which people do not buy goods; there is no season in which they do not want them. By the same token, there is no season in which it will not pay to advertise.

However, if your neighbor has this old-fashioned notion, and is too conservative to advertise now, there is all the better chance for you. If you think people are not hunting bargains in warm weather, try it. Everybody is not out of town,
